If yes, give a brief description and a list of modules currently operational (maximum 500 words)	The TCSiON Digital Campus Solution comprises a suite of offerings, which are distinct yet cohesive, catering to seasonal academic events and mapped to specific departments of NLUD. It facilitates the entire student lifecycle management from enquiry to alumni and provides the option to select specific offerings to meet current requirement. The key features of Digital Campus Solution at NLUD: Student Dashboard: This is an easy to use, single page, real time user interface, which is an easy to comprehend visual display of the most important information needed to meet the objectives of the processes. Manage Student Details facilitates management of student information, which can be updated and tracked by various means and helps to view the details corresponding to various student processes. NLUD can generate various reports using the reports screen: Student Complete Details, Discipline Details and Separation Details. Time Table also known as the class schedule, provides an overview of the activities planned for a class on a daily basis for the duration of the academic year/session, due to which synchronization between: Students, Teachers, Faculty, Rooms, Subjects, Time slots or Periods can be done. Exam and Grading are used to assess the students' knowledge, understanding, and application of the concepts in the various subjects taught as part of the course/ programme. There are different ways of capturing scores and evaluating a student's performance. Feedback allows for capturing the feedback at session, course, and general (periodic survey) levels. EForms are a highly configurable and flexible product based solution with features that are consistently enriched to match the contemporary scenarios and requirements of NLUD. The EForms interface for the administrator provides features to manage and process application data while auditing. It also offers offline support in the form of spreadsheets. Fee module enables to define various fees, fee heads, and a structure/programme around the process of notification and collection of fees for an educational institution. Admin user can also map the Cost Centre and apply GST configurations in Digital Campus. NLUD Fee module has an absolute relevance on Admission, Student details, Payments and Dues, Time Table, and Exam Grading modules. Digital Learning platform integrates with Learning Management System (LMS), Collaboration, and Communication to facilitate experiential learning for improved learner outcomes. It supports a collaborative pedagogical model to enrich participatory learning by offering course delivery, assessment, reports and other learning opportunities in a secure, community delivery mode.

Alumni	No
Parents	Yes

1.4.2 – How the feedback obtained is being analyzed and utilized for overall development of the institution? (maximum 500 words)

Feedback Obtained

Feedback is taken from the students from all the batches at the end of each semester. The same is intended to capture their overall experience including course content, method of delivery, course materials, manner of conducting the class, examination, evaluation, accessibility of instructors, their encouragement to critical reflections, etc. This has been in place for a number of years. Currently the University is in the process of revisiting the same in order to widen it further. Over the years the feedback had been collated and shared with the teachers intermittently. The university has a system of sharing attendance and examination results regularly with the parents of students through registered emails. The attendance section and the examination department maintain records of all such communications. The faculty in charge of examination department informs parents if students have to undertake repeat or improvement examinations. Physical meetings are held for this purpose by the examination department. The university receives the feedback of employers through the recruitment and coordination committee of students.

This system helps in encouraging conversation across batches and also helps the fresher with other problems that a student would be/could be facing irrespective of it being academic or non- academic. Teaching Assistant- Each subject has a minimum of 2 teaching assistants. These teaching assistants are appointed by the subject teacher and they help in all academic related issues related to the subject they are the assistant of. Teaching Assistants can only be the 4th-5th year students. Moot Mentor- Each student who had signed up for open selection, was allotted a moot mentor who would guide them through, on how research for a memorial has to be done. The students who would be mentor can only be 4th and 5th students, who are experienced in mooting. Student Academic Assistance Programme (SAAP)- Students from the senior batches (4th-5th Year) can opt to be a SAAP to help students in junior batches to make them understand the difficult subjects by way of remedial classes and discussion sessions. APPSC project mentor- APPSC is a student organisation which allot senior students as mentors to guide the 1st year students in their project submissions. Projects in law schools are very different than the ones which the students used to do in their schools or pre-graduate degrees. The students are provided the constant help and assistance to find material from various legal databases required for projects writing. Remedial Classes- Remedial classes are organised by the university specially for providing assistance to students in subjects where it is felt that students are unable to cope up with the syllabus and need extra support of the teacher. Teachers also assist learners with special needs in such extra classes. The university through recruitment and coordination committee of student also provides assistance in placement of such students.

CRITERION VI – GOVERNANCE, LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT

6.1 – Institutional Vision and Leadership

6.1.1 – Mention two practices of decentralization and participative management during the last year (maximum 500 words)

National Law University has adopted a cooperative and inclusive model of governance, enabling involvement of various stakeholders in both the overall and day-to-day functioning of the University. 1. University Committees - Involvement in the decision-making process of various stakeholders is achieved through numerous committees, including the student committees. These committees deal with a range of concerns both curricular and co-curricular activities such as cultural activities, sports, etc. Additionally, committees focusing on social justice issues (such as Legal Aid Cell) receive additional support from the University. All committees have been granted substantial discretion in determining initiatives and activities they can undertake. During the Covid pandemic lockdown, various Faculty-Student committees, including the Monitoring Committee, were constituted to ensure smooth functioning of online classes and prompt redressal of any concerns or grievances that arose in that regard. These committees served as a conduit for flow of important information between the University administration, faculty and students. 2. Establishment of the Enabling Unit - the purpose of the Enabling Unit is to make life at the University more accessible for students with disabilities by working toward removing barriers that impede growth and development. The functions of Enabling Unit include: (a) facilitating the admission of persons with disabilities in the university (b) providing guidance to persons with disabilities in the university and (c) creating awareness about the needs of disabled persons, and about other general issues concerning disability. The noted initiatives are among the many that National Law University has undertaken over the years. These initiatives both secure an access to the University authorities and ensures voicing of opinions of various stakeholders, which in turn facilitates a more meaningful deliberation on relevant concerns. Such an approach has enabled a culture of participative management by securing involvement of faculty, non-teaching staff, and students in various aspects of decision-making process in the University

6.1.2 – Does the institution have a Management Information System (MIS)?

Yes

6.2 – Strategy Development and Deployment

6.2.1 – Quality improvement strategies adopted by the institution for each of the following (with in 100 words each):

Strategy Type	Details
Admission of Students	Admission to NLUD is done through the All-India Law Entrance Test (AILET) in pen and paper mode. This was conducted by the National Testing Agency in 2020 across all India in a transparent and smooth manner through the Remote Proctored Test (RPT) mode. All information concerning admission and the entrance exam are clearly notified on the University website.
Industry Interaction / Collaboration	University encourages the participation and collaboration with various Law firms and also organises various Workshop for legal drafting, gender sensitization, legal aid, workshops, and placement drive with various Law firms and Public Sector entities like SAIL, etc. Distinguished persons are regularly invited to participate in University programmes including capacity building and extension programmes offered by the University. University conducts regular training programmes for officials of Central and State government. Recently NLUD collaborated with Department of Justice, Ministry of Law and Justice, to offer a three-month online certificate programme in Business and Commercial laws (BCL).
Human Resource Management	NLUD focuses on attracting, training, developing, and retaining quality human resources. Periodic assessment is undertaken to assess requirements of teaching and non-teaching staff at the University and relevant programmes addressing specific requirements are organised on a regular basis. HRM solution by TCS has been adopted to more effectively manage human resources within the University.
Library, ICT and Physical Infrastructure / Instrumentation	An integral part of the National Law University Delhi, Justice T. P. S. Chawla Library is renowned for its state-of-the-art infrastructure and facilities. The Library amalgamates an expansive and diverse collection of print as well as digital resources, to support the various teaching and research activities of students, research scholars and faculty members. RFID software along with treatises and commentaries, reporting and academic journals, reports and proceedings, legislative and constitutional material and loose-leaf, dissertations and thesis, moot memorials, encyclopaedia, digests and many more are available. There is an extensive range of national and international electronic resources to access digital contents 24x7 within and outside the campus through IP ranges of University and remote access services. To meet the growing challenges of internet usage and e-learning, the library has established Legal Information Resource Centre. The LIRC is well equipped with 20 high end desktops having Microsoft operating system, heavy-duty printer and scanners. There is also a separate bay provided for laptop users.

Research and Development

National Law University Delhi aims at fostering and nurturing a vibrant and multidisciplinary research ecosystem. The University has established 20 Research Centres focussing on advanced legal research on contemporary and multidisciplinary areas. Numerous research projects have been undertaken by the university and these centres resulting in quality research reports and publication. The outcomes of various events like conferences and seminars organised by the University also contribute to research and development activities of Legal Research. Research efforts and output of various faculty members have been acknowledged and appreciated both nationally and internationally. University has also strengthened research culture in the University by organising regular faculty development programmes focussing on development of research competencies. Financial support is also provided to faculty members for participating in research activities including attending workshops/seminars at the national and international law.

Examination and Evaluation

At NLUD the focus is on continuous evaluation which is conducted over the course of the academic year. Numerous initiatives have been undertaken to secure reliable, effective and transparent assessment protocols. Some of the quality initiatives include digitisation of question papers with provision of model answer keys use of random coding of answer scripts for internal evaluation academic freedom to utilise a range of assessment methodologies etc. Additionally, the National Academy Depository by the MHRD has also been implemented. During the COVID times online open book exams were successfully conducted in July 2020 for the strength of approximately 500 B.A. LL.B. (Hons) students. Information pertaining to examinations and assessment, including evaluation criteria and grading systems is regularly provided to students.

Teaching and Learning

Learning is an incremental and continuous process therefore at NLUD the focus is on making learning holistic, engaging and goal oriented. At NLUD the focus is on a holistic development of Students' personality, therefore equal emphasis is given to curricular and co-curricular aspects of learning. Further, to achieve a wholesome learning ecosystem, faculty is encouraged to adopt innovative pedagogical techniques including increased incorporation of information and communication technology within their teaching methodologies. The entire campus is wi-fi enabled and all classroom are equipped with ICT equipment. In the COVID times, online classes in each subject were/are carried out through Google Classroom and Google Meet. The facility of recording the lectures is also provided so that the students can access the lectures from anywhere anytime. To ensure access to online lectures and resources (such as E-Pathshala, MOOCs, and other library services) during the lockdown, financial assistance to secure internet connectivity was provided to the students.

Curriculum Development

NLUD seeks to impart quality legal education that is both socially and industry relevant. In securing that mandate, it has focussed on securing a curriculum that is more applied, innovative and synchronous with developments in the field of law. To assist in this endeavour, faculty members are accorded a high level of autonomy in devising of the teaching plan, preparation of reading materials and selection of pedagogical approaches. During these COVID times the various faculties are modulating and composing the curriculum keeping in mind the best interest of the students. A range of elective and seminar courses focussing on multidisciplinary and contemporary areas are also offered to students. These courses are offered by experts from the academia, legal fraternity, corporate sector and government, ensuring cutting edge knowledge and on field experience to the students. The University has also constituted a Curriculum Review Committee that is responsible for periodic review and assessment of the curriculum.

6.2.2 – Implementation of e-governance in areas of operations:

E-governance area	Details
Planning and Development	NLUD adopts a data driven approach to decision making. Various ICT mechanisms are utilised to coordinate efforts among a diverse set of stakeholders involved in the planning and development process of the University. Procurement of the University is done through Government of India E-procurement portal. Tenders of infrastructural and other requirements of the University are regularly advertised on the University website.
Administration	University data and records are maintained in electronic form to streamline University functioning. NLUD has adopted e-governance policies to improve education delivery (use of technology for conduct of online classes and exam), encourage collaborative research, provide ready access to student information through its website and TCSiON platform, and make the overall working of the University and its bodies more effective and transparent.
Finance and Accounts	All information pertaining to the University, staff and students, including information relating to student fees, salary of teaching, non-teaching staff, research staff, etc., are digitised and made available on the University website. The University has also adopted the Public Fund Management System. Accounts of the University are regularly audited by relevant authorities and audited financial statements are duly uploaded on the University website.

Student Admission and Support

Admission to the University is done through an All-India online entrance examination (AILET). The admission notice for academic session is uploaded online on the University Website with complete and relevant details for the benefit of the student community. Information for AILET 2020 is available online here. Frequent and timely updates relating to the admission process and modalities of the online examination are also provided on the University website. Results and the merit list of the students qualifying the AILET examination are also made available on the University website. Queries regarding admission process are promptly responded to by appropriate authority.

Examination

NLUD adopted the online open book examination system in view of the COVID 19 pandemic lockdown. Examination schedule and instructions were circulated through email to all the faculty and students. Similarly, examination duty schedule was notified through email among the faculty members. All questions papers were circulated electronically and students were required to submit their responses through the Turnitin platform, which provided a check against plagiarism. Internal assessment schedule and records were also intimated to the faculty electronically. Information relating to attendance and internal assessment records were electronically communicated to all students and their parents and also made on the TCSiON platform. To assist in examination preparation, all previous years questions papers were digitised and made available on the University Website.

6.5.3 – Activities and support from the Parent – Teacher Association (at least three)

There is an informal parent teacher association which provides various opportunities provided for parent- faculty and parent -administration interaction. Through counseling at the time of admission and through orientation programme with the whole university before admissions, we facilitate parent and student interactions with the university staff, teaching and non-teaching. This enhances familiarity and comfort between both the sides, parents-students and university. The offices of VC and Registrar are open for student interaction and feedback. The students can meet either of the authority by going to their offices and requesting a meeting. Even parents can access the authorities and the faculty through these offices for interaction through phone, or meeting through appointments, or over mail. The Parents are regularly informed of their ward's attendance and academic performance. The attendance of students is marked on the TCS-ion platform. Regular reports are generated and provided to the students and their parents for the perusal. The semester examination results are also declared online which the parents can view on the NLUD website. Special counselling for academically weak students and their parents is provided by the Under-Graduate Council with the intention of identifying and addressing specific concerns of the student.

7.1.7 – Initiatives taken by the institution to make the campus eco-friendly (at least five)

1. Upkeep of plantation, potted plants and maintenance of a green atmosphere on campus 2. Dedicated and designated staff and resources to ensure cleanliness of the campus 3. Use of eco-friendly mechanisms and modes of energy. Solar panels have been installed in hostels to ensure supply of hot water to students during winter months. 4. Installation of colour coded waste bins at various places on the campus to facilitate waste segregation (biodegradable and non-biodegradable wastes). 5. Everyone on campus is encouraged to use bicycles to commute inside the campus. 6. A concerted effort to move towards paperless working including paperless assignment submission.

7.2 – Best Practices

7.2.1 – Describe at least two institutional best practices

1. Creating a peaceful and inclusive campus environment National Law University Delhi values a comprehensive, holistic, socially relevant and interdisciplinary legal education which prepares the students for the ground realities of the world. The University is a residential campus wherein students and faculty from various parts of the country as well as the world study and live together. It becomes essential to promote harmony and make the campus an inclusive space.

Apart from the usual dynamics, there are several different cultural, linguistic, regional, communal, socio-economic diversities at play on the campus that needs to be addressed. Through this type of education, we aim to promote legal and ethical values and foster the rule of law and the objectives enshrined in the Constitution of India, striving to achieve political, social and economic justice. We strongly believe that we must create awareness about rights and entitlements and eliminate oppression, exploitation of the weaker, marginalized and poorer sections of the society, and thereby we reach out to such communities through various measures and initiatives. The Practice: The University has constituted various committees including the Equal Opportunities Cell (EOC), SC/ST Cell and Social Inclusion Committee - all working towards ensuring creation of an inclusive space within the University. The EOC provides information and acts as a counselling-cum-guidance centre for students belonging to the marginalized sections, especially with regard to academic, financial and other matters. Thereby, creating and fostering a holistic and socially conducive atmosphere for the growth of healthy interpersonal relations among students from the marginalized sections and from various social backgrounds. This is to help them in developing cordial interpersonal relationships between teachers and students for academic interaction and extra-curricular activities. It aims to extend help/ support to the students from marginalized sections to overcome problems and barriers emanating from discrimination at any level within its mandate. The committee comprises of both faculty members and students. The SC/ST Cell mandated by the UGC Guidelines among many things also function as a Grievances Redressal Cell for the grievances of SC/ST students and employees of the university and render them necessary help in solving their academic as well as administrative problems. The Social Inclusion Committee is a student body committee with a faculty advisor, which work towards addressing various issues faced by different communities within the campus. Evidence of Success: With the induction of new batches every academic year, a set of students with a different demographic join with various interests and identities. Recently the University has been able to increase the number of enrolment of students in the B.A.LL.B. course due to this increasing co-ordination and co-operation among the student fraternity as well as the faculty and staff. Further, this practice of encouraging inclusivity led various student-initiated bodies like APPSC and Social Inclusion Committee, composed by the students themselves. These committees in place have been able to address several areas of concern as well as have raised awareness regarding the same. Problems Encountered and Resources Required: Instilling caste and class sensitivity is an area that these practices tend to focus on the most, considering the deep-rooted prejudices and stereotypes the society has perpetuated among individuals. Thereby emphasis is given to sensitization workshops, talks and discussion.

<https://nludelhi.ac.in/qick-notification.aspx> 2. Clean and Green Campus Objectives of the Practice: The objectives the University endeavours to achieve through this practice are: a) create an eco-friendly environment in campus b) to increase the overall health of students c) to instil community sense/skills and environment-friendly behaviour among the students d) to reduce pollution by minimizing waste within the campus e) to improve air quality, and reduce energy and water use f) to achieve environmental and economic sustainability g) for overall improved quality of life on campus. The Context: In National Law University Delhi, we believe that development can go hand in hand with the preservation of nature. This ideology reflects almost all the measures adopted by the University. Located in a prime location of Dwarka, New Delhi, occasionally known for its high pollution levels, it becomes all the more important to take steps towards creating a healthy and safe environment for the students, faculty and staff. In addition, the University believes adopting eco-friendly practices can set an example to higher education institutes around the country. The Practice: The campus has a contemporary, yet eco-friendly infrastructure and green ambience. The greenery and the well-maintained campus are a striking feature of the University from the very first sight. Simultaneously the University is equipped with both modern technologies and environmentally friendly practices. As of 2018, the campus is fully air-conditioned and yet it is pollution-free and follows a clean and green eco-friendly outlook. With its clean surroundings and green atmosphere, there is maximum coverage with greenery having over 10,000 potted plants. Upkeep of plantation, potted plants, and overall maintenance is done on a daily basis. There is dedicated and designated staffs who work around the clock and resources have been assigned to duties related to different types and areas of cleanliness, courtesy of the campus being residential. Due to which regular sanitation and fumigation of washrooms, kitchens, classrooms, etc. are done with regularity. Pest control and anti-mosquito fogging are done every fortnightly to maintain the university insect-free. Everyone at the university is sensitized to environment-friendly behaviour, and the management has installed various eco-friendly preservation and conservation machinery and mechanisms. Solar power is used in the hostels to supply hot water to students during winters. The infrastructure is carefully curated by stationing plants, buildings, and pathways that push any excess rainwater away from the walking passage. Running water is available 24x7 on campus, while three rainwater harvesting systems are also in place to save water. 40 water purifiers and coolers are available at every point of the University for providing clean drinkable water. All across the campus colour coded garbage disposal bins facilitates segregation between biodegradable and non-biodegradable waste disposal. Garbage segregation and disposal is of special concern and solid waste collection and disposal has been assigned on a daily basis to the housekeeping staff and to the SDMC. Constant monitoring of the campus is done according to seasonal changes and requirements. Biodiversity is noticeable in the campus, with birds, butterflies, and stray dogs adopted by the university. Evidence of Success: One of the greatest achievements in terms of maintaining a green and clean environment within the campus for National Law University Delhi is being ranked Third (3rd) cleanest Higher Educational Institutions in the country in Swachh Campus Ranking 2019 by Ministry of Human Resource Development. The campus also observes increased productivity among students, faculty and staff due to the positive environment created due to these measures and practices. Problems Encountered and Resources Required: There are disadvantages due to the location at times, due to the increase in pollution levels during certain periods. However, the University tries its best to not contribute to the same and maintain its environment-friendly measures and practices all throughout the year.

7.3 – Institutional Distinctiveness

7.3.1 – Provide the details of the performance of the institution in one area distinctive to its vision, priority and thrust in not more than 500 words

The National Law University Delhi was established in 2008 by Act No. 1 of 2008 with the vision to evolve and impart comprehensive, interdisciplinary and socially relevant legal education. It has attempted to do this by encouraging active and high-quality research by the faculty members, in the conviction that teaching and research are mutually reinforcing concepts. As a result, National Law University Delhi has established a robust research ecosystem that interacts with and contributes directly to development of law and policy in various areas of law both nationally and internationally. As part of this initiative four endowment chairs and various research centres have been established focusing on innovative research spanning a range of legal concerns including death penalty, mental health of prisoners, open access, education and gender, corporate governance, sustainable development, law and technology, etc. These research projects have yielded significant results in the form of release of incarcerated death row inmates, contribution to open access discussions, mainstreaming of mental health concerns of prisoners, inclusion of victim jurisprudence within criminal law and policy discussions, auditing corporate social responsibility initiatives, securing of access to justice through right to information, working closely with marginalised and vulnerable sections of the society to secure their access to governmental programmes, to name a few.

Its research capacity has also been strengthened through the receipt of research grants from a range of funders including the Ministry of Human Resource Development (SPARC), Ministry of Law and Justice, European Union, UNDP, Qualcomm Inc., etc. Student involvement in various research projects facilitates young budding lawyer-students to think critically, become well conversant with legal principles and enables them to view and practice law from a holistic perspective. All centres actively encourage and involve student participation in various stages of the research, including in field work. Such involvement provides students with an invaluable opportunity to obtain a first-hand view of the real life situations and challenges faced by various marginalised sections of the society. It further enables them to understand and engage critically with the working of the law, and provides them with a substantive means to bring about a meaningful change using law as an instrument of social transformation. NLUD encourages its students to utilise their legal knowledge and skills for community betterment. Opportunities to engage with local community to meet their legal aid needs are made available to through the University's Legal Service Committee, Clinic for Assistance in Labour Laws, Mohalla Clinics and Pro Bono Panel. NLUD has strengthened its academic, research and industry collaborations consistently over the years. These collaborations have resulted in cutting edge research and innovative outcomes such as the IP Startups project that is expected to contribute substantially to the innovation landscape in India by highlighting the relevance of IP for startups in India and the development of L2Pro IP e-learning Platform. NLUD has also entered into MoUs with international and national academic institutions to facilitate exchange of faculty and students. Currently NLUD published four high quality academic journals.

8.Future Plans of Actions for Next Academic Year

National Law University Delhi has been adopting several initiatives to improve its academic and research activities. The developments and improvements envisaged by it over the course of the next academic year are the following: Increased efforts would be made to strengthen existing research ecosystem in the University. This would include provision of greater financial and material support to various Research Centres at NLUD to expand and upgrade their research capacities and capabilities. Establishment of research centres focusing on issues of social justice are also in the pipeline. Additionally, four endowment chairs, namely KL Arora Chair in Criminal Law, Justice Bodhraj Sawney Chair on Professional Ethics, Chair on Consumer Laws (Ministry of Consumer Affairs) and DPIIT IPR Chair have been instituted to support and bolster research efforts at NLUD by focussing on generation of relevant and impactful research. The university is endeavouring to establish more chairs to facilitate research and policy work. To assist in its efforts to review and upgrade its research endeavours NLUD has established the Academic and Research Planning Department, and the Research and Development Committee which is mandated to chart efforts and steps necessary to strengthen research culture in the University. In addition to their research mandates, all research centres are in the process of formulating and offering industry relevant courses and training programmes both to government officials and members of the general public. The university is focussing on internationalization of campus including new and innovative curriculum and bringing more foreign faculty and foreign students for its programmes. Steps in this regard have already been taken by the university by registering for students through Study In India- EDCIL Programme and Indian Council for Cultural Relations. The University has an impressive teacher-student ratio, which it would focus on maintaining even though its intake of students for both the undergraduate and post graduate programme has substantially increased. As a residential University all students stay on campus, therefore to accommodate the growing NLUD fraternity, expansion of University infrastructure would be undertaken. In equal measure institutional plans and strategies are being deliberated upon to efficiently deploy and upgrade existing IT infrastructure and associated facilities. This is undertaken with a view of strengthening both synchronous and asynchronous teaching and learning capabilities. In the coming year the University intends to invest
